

EXHIBIT 3.5. Think-Aloud

Note: The names used here should be changed to reflect you and your own students. Teacher think-aloud comments appear in italics.

The students were working very hard in class one day (I wondered what they were doing?). In the middle of a lesson, Jose screamed, "Look, there's a mouse!" (This makes me see a picture of a little tiny mouse in my mind.) All the students started yelling, and some jumped on their desks. Tou threw his pencil at it, and Chou threw his pen. The teacher was very afraid, too. Pang wasn't worried. (I wonder why she wasn't afraid?) She took two books and used them to push the mouse out the door. The mouse was free, and Pang was a hero. (This makes me see a picture in my mind of the teacher and students cheering Pang. This story is about a mouse in the classroom and how Pang got rid of it.)