

EXHIBIT 4.40. Animal Report Example: Parrots

Parrots are beautiful birds and live in rain forests around the world. Most live in the jungles of South America. They are many different colors, though many are green.

They can be between four and forty inches long. They are very smart. They can talk and have been kept as pets for 2,000 years. Parrots can live to be 75 years old.

Parrots eat seeds, berries, nuts, and fruit. They hang upside down when they search for food.

Parrots are popular pets. They are endangered because they don't give birth to many baby parrots, and so many people want them as pets. Bigger birds, like hawks, also attack and eat them.

I chose to write about parrots because I saw a movie about a group of them living in San Francisco.
