

EXHIBIT 5.7. Argument Think-Aloud

Note: Teacher think-aloud comments appear in italics.

Many middle schools and high schools have adopted school uniform policies in recent years. (I wonder if our school has ever considered uniforms?) Some proponents claim uniforms can increase school unity and promote a focus on academics rather than fashion. (Yes, I've heard this argument before when I worked at a middle school.) However, opponents of school uniform policies argue that uniforms inhibit individuality and prevent students from expressing themselves at an age when self-expression is very important. (This makes sense to me. But I also wonder if students can express themselves in other ways?) They also argue that many families may not be able to afford uniforms, which can be costly. Some schools have tried to compromise by not requiring students to purchase a specific uniform, but instead requiring they wear certain colors of clothing such as blue or khaki on the bottom and white on top. (This is an interesting compromise—I wonder what students think of this?)
